"Artistocracy" in This City

By Maude Isabel Hogle

Doing evil that good may come, is a policy of doubtful standing. Once passed by referendum, the expense and trouble of changing a bad ordinance comes upon the people; it cannot be changed by the city trustees. The people of Carmel should demand a clear answer to three questions regarding the proposed Zoning Ordinance—questions much more important than any purporting to be answered by the zoning catechism.

The ordinance is accused of being unconstitutional, unfair and damaging to property values. Better no zoning than zoning at such a price as this.

Three hundred and sixty-seven of our residents and taxpayers protested in writing against the passage of this ordinance. Remember, this protest was made before the ordinance was adopted, and also remember, 367 names are 31 more than the total vote cast at the last municipal election, April, 1922.

This protest regarding a matter in which every inhabitant of our city is vitally concerned was ignored, and the [illegible] this one, the planning commission and the chosen few, and then calmly asked the people, "What are you going to do about it?"

Entirely aside from the merits, this action should be repudiated at the coming election as a rebuke from those whom the trustees were chosen to serve, and whom, in this instance, they have signally refused to serve.

The most casual reading of this ordinance will disclose how it benefits one property owner at the expense of another, tends to a monopoly in certain lines of business, renders more than 140 lots with 25-foot frontage useless for building purposes, is arbitrary and discriminating in its provisions, and practically confiscates some areas while making others unsalable.

If we are to have a Zoning Ordinance, the people certainly do not desire this one.

It is just such flagrant abuse of official authority as the passing of this Zoning Ordinance that first brought about the adoption of the referendum, and if there were ever a case to which this wholesome remedy should be applied, we have it now.

Vote "No" on Ordinance No. 55.

Schroffs to Tour Europe This Summer

Prof. Alfred H. Schroff, head of the fine arts department of the University of Oregon, well known here, where he has a studio, has completed plans for a two months' tour of Europe this coming summer. His wife, a painter of miniature, and a party of art students will accompany him.

Prof. Schroff lived for some time in Europe earlier in his career. He studied antique stained glass in England and France, and visited old cathedrals and museums. He has won a medal for stained glass at Kingston, Jamaica, in an international competition, and since taking up painting instead of glass designs and execution, he has become known as a painter of brilliant landscapes. Last year he won two first prizes given in the west—one awarded by the Seattle Fine Arts Society, and one in competition with artists from all over the United States at an exhibit in Springville, Utah.

They will be missed in Carmel this year.

I stepped up to the fountain with Belinda
And carelessly ordered a drink;
The soda man fumbled the serving
And used Belinda's lap for a sink.

Did Belinda get angry and scold him?
No, sir—not so you could see;
She smiled at the clerk and quickly observed,
"Have another—this round is on me."

World-Famous Musical Trio at High School Auditorium

In booking the celebrated Cherniavsky Trio for a concert at the Monterey High School next Thursday evening, the Philharmonic Society, a group of local music-lovers working unselfishly for the good of the Peninsula, has again shown that it believes us to be ready and willing to patronize good music.

It is beyond question that Monterey and Pacific Grove have heretofore lagged behind in its encouragement of the bringing in of musical artists, and it is up to the local public to show by its attendance at the Cherniavsky recital that it is not indifferent to the good work of the Philharmonic Society and wishes it to go on. Tickets at the Palace Drug Store. Free busses for Carmelites to and from Thursday's concert.

Anticipation Keen as to "Belinda"

Having in mind the great success of the February month-end plays put on by Arthur Cyril and Edward G. Kuster at the new Arts and Crafts Theatre, anticipation is keen regarding the March 28 and 29 production of "Belinda," A. A. Milne's three-act comedy.

So well has this production been advertised and publicised that already in this city seven cats and three dogs of the feminine gender have had fastened upon them the name "Belinda," and talk is current that an automobile shortly to be put on the market will be named the Belinda Beauty.

The excellent cast selected by Arthur Cyril to portray Milne's interesting characters are rehearsing faithfully and long, so that we may look forward to an exceptionally fine show.

We Held an Election a Few Days Ago

A hurriedly called election, the legality of which is in question, for members of the Carmel Sanitary District board and a Sanitary Assessor was held last Monday at the city hall. A light vote was cast and resulted in the election of R. F. Gillett and John Douglas as board members, and J. E. Nichols, assessor.

It is understood that these officials and holdovers will shortly cease to function, as upon the early discharge of the sewer bonds of the district there will be nothing for the board to do. The municipal portion of the board's jurisdiction will be turned over to the city board of trustees, and that portion outside of the city to the county board of supervisors.

Friday evening, April 25—Ossip Gabrilovich, pianist. Monterey High School Auditorium.

Much Activity in Local Scout Troop

Under the able direction of Scout Master William L. Maxwell, Carmel's troop of Boy Scouts is going good, and there is much enthusiasm.

Every Tuesday and Thursday after school the boys report out for drill, and the first Friday of each month is full dress inspection. Patrols that have been established are: "The Flying Eagle," with Tom Warren as patrol leader and Maro Hammond as assistant patrol leader; "The Black Bear," of which James Hopper Jr. is temporary leader, and "The Owl," with Robert Reigg as patrol leader and John Bartlett as assistant patrol leader.

Eugene Roehling is troop scribe and Scott Douglass is assistant scribe.

More Substantial Building Urged

By Bailey Willis
President, Seismological (Earthquake) Society of America. Stanford University.

There was a slight earthquake shock here last Saturday morning, which might easily have passed unnoticed, but is somewhat significant. It occurred just before 3:35 a. m., that being the time given by my watch, which is two or three minutes fast. It was preceded by a sound of vibration, began with a long, undulating motion that made this cottage creak, and [illegible] shock. It probably did not last five seconds altogether and was so slight that it would not have awakened most people. I happened to be awake at the moment and in a position to notice the slight vibration.

It would not be worth noticing except that it serves to remind us that this is an earthquake region, in which it is wise to take reasonable precautions against damage and injury. Unfortunately our memories are short and we soon forget that Nature goes her way without regard to our neglect of her repeated warnings. Since 1836 there have been 10 severe earthquakes in the coast ranges of Northern California, namely, 1860, '61, '65, '68, '88, '89, '90, '92, '98 and 1906. Monterey and Carmel have suffered but little, it is true, from these shocks, in comparison with the Santa Clara Valley and the Peninsula region, yet they have not been immune and we know so little about the conditions which occasion earthquakes that it is wise not to assume too much on our apparent security.

We do know that earthquakes originate on active faults, such as the San Andreas fault, which runs through San Juan, Chittenden, Wrights Station and the Crystal Springs lakes; or the Santa Cruz fault, which passes through Santa Cruz and around Ben Lomond mountain; or the Carmel fault, that cuts across the north end of Carmel, between it and Pebble Beach, and winds southeast into the Santa Lucia range. We do not know just when any particular fault may become active, however, and I cannot say whether the little shock we felt last Saturday morning originated on the local faults of this vicinity or on the San Andreas.

However that may be, it serves warning that we had better consider how we build our residences and stores, with a view to making them safe. "Build houses, not traps," is what that little shake said last night. Unfortunately it is apparent to any one who goes about Carmel and vicinity that traps are being built. Experience has demonstrated, for instance, that brick walls cannot be trusted to carry floor beams, for an earthquake may cause the walls to sway apart sufficiently to draw the beams off of the four-inch bearing that is commonly given them and to drop them. It is well known that a facing of brick or stone outside of a frame building is bound to come down, unless the two are very firmly tied together, yet I observe some rather costly houses being built that way, without any bond whatever between the wood frame inside and the substantial looking outer wall. What happens when an earthquake hits such a structure is that the frame and outer wall both swing like pendulums, but since they differ in weight and in the position of the center of gravity, they swing with different times or periods and wreck each other.

The same thing happens to chimneys. From an old report on the great earthquake of 1906 I may quote as follows: "The evidence at Monterey was rather contradictory. In some parts sound sleepers being unawakened, while in others furniture was moved slightly and some top-heavy pieces were overturned. The formation of the ground is no doubt responsible for this, most of the town being on granite. But two chimneys, on evident 'made ground' were injured, and those at Del Monte hotel (on alluvial soil) fell."—(Report of R. L. Motz and G. A. Waring to Dr. J. C. Branner.)

More Substantial Building Is Urged

That is to say, chimneys are almost sure to be thrown down, even by a shock of moderate intensity, not because they are tall, but because they sway with a period quite different from that of the house in which they are held. They must either smash the roof or be broken off at its level. Now there is no reason why we should build with brick above the attic floor. A light steel frame, properly braced, covered with metal lath, and cased in cement, can be given any architectural effect that may be desired and is just as fireproof as brick. The terra cotta flue inside of it can be as securely fastened to it. Why do we stupidly persist in doing the thing that has done a great deal of damage and hurt a great many people? [illegible] conspiracy of silence in regard to earthquakes in California and that is in great measure responsible for the fact that we still build badly and live in fancied security. If we would build rightly, taking precautions that might cost five per cent more than it does to build traps, we could sleep in safety. Having for some years been interested in earthquakes and having in the last year and a half been asked to speak in public on the subject of earthquake risk, both in San Francisco and Los Angeles, I feel that the conspiracy is weakening and we are [illegible] sirable condition: Quake-proof California. Let our motto be in regard to earthquakes, as it is in our industries, SAFETY FIRST.

YOU MUST ACT

The prime thing that every man who takes an interest in politics should remember is that he must act, and not merely criticise the actions of others. It is not the man who sits by his fireside reading his evening paper and saying how bad our politics and politicians are, who will ever do anything to save us; it is the man who goes out into the rough hurly-burly of the caucus, the primary and the political meeting and there faces his fellows on equal terms. The real service is rendered, not by the critic, who stands aloof from the contest, but by the man who enters into it and bears his part as a man should, undeterred by the blood and sweat.—Theodore Roosevelt.

CHOICE OF LIFE WORK IMPORTANT

What to do with the college graduate has long been a question of real economic importance the answer to which has seldom been correctly given by the very institutions of learning which provide him with academic information and outlook, but no especial fitness for any special work.

Giving voice to this thought, President Angell of Yale, in his annual report, says:

"The young man often has little or no knowledge of the peculiarities and relative advantages of different forms of occupation. He knows still less whether or not he possesses an equipment, either temperamental or educational, such as to give him from the outset a fair chance for success. The inevitable result is that many men get into positions for which they are more or less unfitted and in which they can never expect to work very happily or effectively.

"Our colleges are slowly awakening to their opportunity to render at this point a real service, both to the community and to the individual student. Yale may well extend to her present efforts to assist students in choosing wisely their course of study, by bringing to their attention adequate information concerning the familiar lines of occupation into which college-trained men may and do go."

Your Flower Seeds and How to Achieve Success With Them

By Harry A. Greene

Many persons have become discouraged by failure to make their flower seeds grow.

Their non-success may be attributed to one or many causes, but most likely it was because of carelessness or pure ignorance.

By following the directions herein set forth and applying ordinary intelligence in each stage of operation success will surely result.

Obtain some cigar boxes (50 size) and with a saw cut four or more slits through the bottom edges for drainage.

Fill the boxes with damp, sifted soil, one half sand.

Settle this mixture evenly in the boxes by jamming them down on a firm surface a couple of times.

When the earth is leveled off the [illegible]

Now scatter your seed evenly on the surface, not too thick. With fine seed mix them in a hand full of sand to give better distribution.

With a small block of wood press down upon the seeded surface, evenly, until it is at least a quarter of an inch below the rim, then cover the seed with about a quarter of an inch of damp, coarse sand.

The sand used by cement mixers will answer.

Next cut a piece of burlap to fit over the sand; cover, and soak it thoroughly before placing it on top, as a second cover, and pour water over it, enough to wet the contents of the box.

Water only in the morning, to prevent "damping off" and be sure that the contents of the box will never become dry.

Since heat hastens germination, place seed boxes in a warm place.

When the seedlings are two or three inches high it is advisable to transfer them to boxes containing as much as four inches of good soil; plant them about four inches apart.

Thus you will have sturdy and larger plants for planting out and to distribute among friends.

A few kinds of seeds (sweet peas and nasturtium seed, for instance) are best planted directly in their permanent places.

A. & C. Offers New Attractions

No entertainment offered by Arts and Crafts this spring has seemed to give more complete pleasure than William Edward Johnson's recital at the last members' meeting on Monday night. A large and most enthusiastic audience listened to his unusual and varied program of songs and have been talking over tea-cups and under pine trees ever since, not only of his voice but of the joyous spontaneity of his singing and of the courtesy and generosity of his response.

Mrs. Romayne Hunkins' accompaniment to his songs was, as one club member put it, "enough to make you think you could get up and sing yourself."

The club offers its thanks to Mr. Johnson, its fellow-member, for an evening of rare delight, to Mrs. Hunkins, and to Miss Mossie Hunkins through whom this treat came to us, and who also supplied the refreshments for the occasion.

Arthur Cyril reports that rehearsals for the second act of "Belinda" are now under way, and that his cast is taking hold admirably. M. J. Murphy is building a set with two French doors 12x6 feet, which will be first used for this play, and will remain a valuable part of our stage equipment. These doors will have the virtue of not rippling like the bay in a southwest wind when one knocks lightly on them.

Carmel remembers well the interesting lectures on eclipses given last fall by James H. Worthington—lectures from which the listeners went home feeling comfortably that astronomy was a science not only understandable but humorous. We have wanted ever since to hear Mr. Worthington again, and it is with pleasure that Arts and Crafts announces that he has consented to speak again, on Saturday, April 9, on the subject, "Next [illegible] Mercury and Eclipses of the near Past and Future." This lecture will be given in the new theater, will be illustrated by lantern slides, and will be open to the general public at a nominal admittance fee, proceeds to go to the club treasury.

On April 11 we have a rarely charming thing to offer to club members only—the long-hoped-for evening of poetry given by two makers and lovers of verse now living among our pines—Miss Jessie B. Rittenhouse and and Clinton Scollard.

Abalone League Race is Interesting

That baseball has taken a decided hold on the people of Carmel was again made evident last Sunday afternoon when the largest crowd of the season turned out to witness the two Abalone League games. Over sixty automobiles conveyed the players and spectators to the playing field in Carmel Woods.

Donald Hale's Wood Rats again tasted defeat when they went up against Ernest Schweninger's Blues. The score was 13 to 7.

Harrison Godwin's Reds, the league leaders, took Charles Berkey's Pioneers down the line to the tune of 13 to 8.

It will be noted that both winners scored 13 runs. Lucky, eh?

The standing of the teams is as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Reds	4	1	8.00
Blues	3	2	6.00
Pioneers	2	3	4.00
Wood Rats	1	4	2.00

Animal Show Attractive Event

The committee in charge of the animal show to be given for the benefit of the Monterey County Humane Society announces that the show will be given the week following Easter—vacation week—probably on the 23rd of April. Mrs. W. M. Gragg of Monterey has offered the beautiful walled-in garden of her adobe home at the head of Polk street, Monterey, just diagonally across from Miss Smith's Gift Shop and Tea Rooms. No better place could have been selected—as there is ample room for the animals, shelter for horses, plenty of room for many dogs, which will be tied to the fences, each having his own bed of straw and will be fed and watered by the society's attendant, James Mitchell. There are sheltered porches for the birds and smaller animals.

Please, let every boy and girl (and there is no age limit) be getting ready their pets entries—pets—dogs cats (cages will be provided for these latter pets), birds—anything that one pets and cares for.

Prizes will be offered for the animals which show the best care; a prize for the smallest animal; a prize for the largest animal; a prize for the most unique and for the best trained, etc. In fact, there will be so many different things offered as prizes.

It is planned to have a parade to start on or near Alvarado street in Monterey and march to the grounds. Details of this will be published in time.

There will be no charge for entering your pet, merely the gate fee—25c for children and 50c for adults. To make it easier for the ladies arranging for the affair we would like you to write or telephone what animal or animals you may want to bring. Please do this on or before April 19. You may write to Mrs. C. H. Yates, Carmel, or telephone 914-W-2, and you will greatly help the committee.

This is not absolutely necessary for if at the last minute you find a friend who has not entered his or her animal, they may just bring them to the gate of the show or head of place for parade to start, which will be announced next week in the Pine Cone.

Willstach Exhibit Attracts Many

Beginning last Sunday, all through the week, groups of artists and art lovers, residents and visitors, have found their way to Johan Hagemeyer's picturesque studio on the road to the Forest Theatre, to see the paintings of George Wilstach, the young Lafayette, Indiana, artist who has been sojourning here for some time.

A kindly critic has written the following for the Pine Cone:

"When Mr. Wilstach came to Carmel he realized that he had but a comparatively short time to take some things away with him of the spirit of things about Carmel. He will take to his home some sketches typically characteristic of California.

"I feel that he achieved this quite well in some of his sketches. "Misty Valley" possesses the feeling of California's rolling hills and trembling oaks, as also does the one called "Afternoon Shadows." The latter is painted in a more characteristic California mood, with a warm sun highlighting the copper-colored hill-tops and golded tipped trees tucked aloug the base of the hillside.

"The canvas entitled "Sycamores" is a happy combination of musical color which has its appeal through a play of warm scintillating notes of color against a most complimentary sky.

"The coast subjects which are less familiar to the painter in subject matter, have been treated in a spontaneous manner that gives not only a feeling of the movement and wetness of the water, but a certain fascinating loveliness."

The exhibition will continue up to and including next Tuesday.

Mrs. Daisy Bostick and Dr. Amelia L. Gates motored up to Montezuma school one day this week.

City Zoning Catechism

Questions asked by citizens regarding the zoning ordinance are here answered by the City Planning Commission and the City Attorney.

Question—Will not the Zoning Ordinance tend to increase rents of the down-town business district?

Answer—It may in the future, but not for some time to come. However, future increase in rents will be more than offset by eliminating competition in the hotel and business zones.

Question—I am a business man. What argument have you for me to bring for the Zoning Ordinance?

Answer—By limiting the business zone to a comparatively small area, future competition in your line of business will also be limited within the same boundaries, and no competitor in the future will be enabled to select a location nearer than yourself to the center of population as it may be in future years. All local business men are dependent upon local residents for their trade, and the more residents locate here, the more trade there will be. An overwhelming percentage of the people who live here now came here because they selected Carmel in preference to other towns having more attraction but less natural advantages.

If Carmel is kept a beautiful residential forest town, many other people will come here for the same reasons that brought the rest of us. The Zoning Ordinance insures Carmel's retaining its present attractive features, therefore meaning a larger population and more business. The Zoning Ordinance might be objected to by a business man who locates here ten years from now, but certainly ought not to be objected to by any business now established here.

ALFRED E. BURTON, Pres.
SUSAN PORTER, Secretary.

I am of the opinion that the foregoing replies are a proper interpretation of the zoning ordinance.

ARGYLL CAMPBELL, City Attorney.

March 12, 1924.

To the City Planning Commission,
Carmel, California.

In reply to your inquiry as to whether the same objects may be attained by the employment of existing laws of this state regarding nuisances as may be secured by a zoning ordinance, permit me to say that nuisance laws cannot accomplish the purposes sought for in municipal zoning.

To give a concrete example of my meaning: It has been held by the Supreme Court of this state that neither a gas factory nor a livery stable constitutes a nuisance per se.

In either case the fact of the nuisance depends upon THE MANNER in which the business is conducted. Consequently, in the absence of a zoning ordinance, neither a livery stable nor a gas factory could be abated as a nuisance, if properly conducted.

The same reasoning applies to other businesses of like or less objectionable characteristics.

ARGYLL CAMPBELL,
City Attorney

A party made up of Miss Maria A. Field and Miss Margaret Jacks of Monterey and the Claytons of San Jose left San Francisco this week for New York, whence they will sail for Europe. They will visit in Spain, Italy, France, England and Switzerland.

Wonderful Trio to Perform Here

Coming from their home in London after a year's absence from America, during which they have taken a long rest and also toured Europe, the noted Cherniavsky Trio will appear at the Monterey High School auditorium next Thursday night, March 20, under the auspices of the Peninsula Philharmonic Society.

Tutored first in their infancy by their father, and afterward by the foremost teachers of Europe, each of the three brothers is a master of his instrument. Leo might have been famous alone as a violin virtuoso; Jan as a pianist, and Mischel as a 'cellist. But they prefer to remain together, that they may give to music an unusual organization and add what they can to artistic achievement. They have not been separated, except for purposes of study under different masters, since they started out twenty-two years ago, and they expect to continue the trio as long as humanly possible.

Even the greatest orchestras in the world have not attained the perfection of ensemble playing which is conceded unanimously by the metropolitan critics to the Cherniavsky Trio. The explanation is simple, though the special underlying causes are unusual. Sixty, seventy or eighty men hardly could be expected to reach the attunement of sympathy and co-ordination of technique and interpretation which can be accomplished by three artists who have lived together virtually all their lives. The larger organization cannot hope to escape even small jealousies, to say nothing of varying views as to the meaning of the master composers, and these things mar the subtleties that go to make the charm of the more intimate recital of chamber music by the famous brothers. Thoroughly congenial and sympathetic and in full accord as to the mysteries and intricacies of the music they play, they present a program of exceeding grace and beauty. Their appearance on the Peninsula should be attended with the greatest interest. Tickets are on sale at the Palace Drug Company in Monterey and Carmel.

Deserved Appreciation of Characterization

Within the past few days I heard it remarked that Mrs. Ruth Kuster was criticised for not bringing out the humor in the role she recently enacted in the play, "'Op-o'-My-Thumb."

As one who has had training and experience in dramatic expression, I would like to say that, from an artistic standpoint and a proper portrayal of the analysis of the character, Mrs. Kuster was unusually good and absolutely consistent. Hers was, primarily, a role full of pathos. The humor—and there is much of it—is subtle, and the pathos of her life creates the humor. A workhouse product, lonely, unclaimed, homely, snubbed, starving for the very things that bring a little sunshine and happiness to most, in a pitiful—and, to her associates, most humorous—way, she, through the presence of an unclaimed shirt, creates a lover, a father, beautiful presents, etc. This is humor; and her "asides," when she graciously and condescendingly consents to bestow [illegible] was delicious humor, but always tempered with pathos.

What more humorous than her pitiful delight at being asked out for the holiday; then when she realizes that because he hasn't the courage to face fully the situation and wanted to com[illegible] which she tells him she was only fooling him about the workhouse, etc., was an excellent bit of work.

The role, a difficult one to sustain, called for fine shades of acting, to which Mrs. Kuster responded with more than an amateur's talent.

The various angles of the local zoning proposition are set forth at length in this issue. The opposition to the ordinance is represented by Maude Isabel Hogle; Perry Newberry writes in ite favor, and the planning commission continues the Zoning Catechism.

Johnson Concert Pleasing Affair

By John H. Flanner

At its social meeting last Monday evening, the members of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts had the privilege of hearing an admirable singer—Wm. Edward Johnson of San Jose. The small hall was filled with attentive listeners, enthusiastic in their applause and loath to permit the artist to stop even after the completion of a generous program.

It is not my purpose here to criticise the singer's work, inasmuch as the performance was private and gratuitous. Mr. Johnson's voice is of a very appealing baritone timbre. He sings without strain, as a true artist must. A sincerity and ease of manner at once inspires a good and friendly feeling in the audience. Tastes vary, but it should be said that Mr. Johnson's interpretations were on the whole artistic. Though at his best in lyrical work, he possesses [illegible] a measure of the heroic.

I have heard that Mr Johnson is thinking of spending part of his time in Carmel. I have not substantiated this, but I hope it is true, for such a splendid artist would be a valuable adjunct to our musical growth.

I was very much pleased with Mrs. Romaine Hunkins' work at the piano, She played the accompaniments in a fluent and pleasing style. Unfortunately opportunity to express the full measure of her ability as an artist was forestalled by the inadequacy of the piano.

Pine Needles

Someone handed Arthur Cyril a new play, and last week-end he went down to Rainbow Lodge to give it the double-o.

Mrs. Maude Arndt entertained a large circle of friends at tea in Pine Inn yesterday afternoon. The army was well represented.

Mrs. S. H. Ford and daughter, Miss Agnes, whose local home is the old Cotton place, were here from San Francisco for a fortnight recently.

Miss Mildred Dingley who formerly lived here and at the Highlands, and who attended the Monterey high school, is now a student in the Page school in Los Angeles.

Next Monday is St. Patrick's Day. The occasion will be celebrated as usual in Carmel. The bank will be open, the schools will be in session, and a number of residents will have their annual spud planting.

An interesting visitor in Carmel last Monday was Rev. J. B. Silcox, newly appointed pastor of Mayflower Congregational Church of Pacific Grove. Dr. Silcox has been pastor of large churches in Winnipeg, Montreal, Chicago and Seattle.

E. Phil Fuhrman, traveling representative of Sherman, Clay & Co., is again making regular visits to Carmel. Those wishing anything along musical lines, or information, may leave their inquiries at Pine Cone office, where Mr. Fuhrman can be communicated with.

Zone Proponents Now Organized

Registration for the city election closes tonight. During the week a vigorous campaign has been on to get every man and woman entitled to vote upon the register, with good results. Systematic efforts have resulted in adding a number to the voting population of Carmel, and the largest registration in the town's history forecasts a decisive vote on April 14.

The short, brisk drive for voters started Monday afternoon last at a meeting called by Perry Newberry at Pine Inn, attended by a score or more of men and women interested in the town's welfare. Newberry had already divided the town into nine districts, and had listed in each district all those who had registered. From those present a leader was appointed in each district, with helpers, and they assumed the responsibility of seeing that everyone, not already registered, was given the opportunity. No distinction was to be made between those who favored zoning, and the antis, although the meeting was distinctly and unanimously a pro-zoning affair. It was explained that the desire of the meeting was to have a truly representative vote at the election, leaving to the majority of all the people the decision as to zoning.

All during the week the committees [illegible] working, automobiles going through the town picking up people to bring them to the Pine Cone office. A headquarters has been kept open at Pine Inn, where Perry Newberry has had general direction of the drive, checking back the daily registration. The district leaders, with their committees, are:

1. Robert G. Leidig.
2. Susan C. Porter, Dr. Alfred E. Burton, Ray DeYoe, Harry S. Nye.
3. Dr. Amelia L. Gates.
4. Wm. L. Maxwell, Daisy Bostick, Emeline Harrington.
5. F. O. Field, Helen Parkes, George L. Wood, Richard W. Johnston.
6. John B. Jordan, Alice H. Ward, Mabel G. Young.
7. Mary E. Hand, Ella Rigney, Jennie Coleman.
8. Lewis Josselyn, Herbert Heron, Henry L. Warren.
9. John Kenneth Turner, Elizabeth M. White, Herman A. Spoehr.

The district committees with the general meeting will come together again Monday afternoon at Pine Inn, at three o'clock, to check up the results of the drive, and seek candidates to make the run for city trustees to fill the vacancies caused by the retirement of Thomas B. Reardon, Wm. L. Maxwell and Perry Newberry, whose terms expire with April. None of these trustees will seek re-election.

Woman Explorer Talks to Boys' Club

The local Boys' Club had a gala night on Wednesday, when Mrs. French-Sheldon entertained thirty members with an account of some of her experiences in Africa. After talking for about thirty minutes, she asked for questions, and they came forth from all quarters.

The first question was, "Did you shoot any big game," and when she told of shooting three lions—a father, mother and baby—one could feel the thrill go through the room. One boy wanted to know if she brought any pet lions home. The boys were also interested to learn that she was acquainted with Sir Baden-Powell, the founder of the Boy Scouts.

The club is indebted to the local bank for the gift of nickel savings safes. It is hoped that this will spur boys who are indifferent to saving to thrifty ways.

The evening's refreshments were contributed in generous quantity.

Remsen's Play at Santa Barbara

"King Solomon," by Ira M. Remsen, a drama centering about the events leading up to the fall of Judea, the quest of the queen, Sheba in search of a vision, an ideal for her people for which she goes in search to the brilliant court of Solomon will be produced at the Potter, Santa Barbara, next Friday and Saturday, by the Community Arts Players under the direction of Albert Herter.

Mr. Remsen completed the play only recently. The story is of the most spectacular nature in treatment and is modern in its conception and mecnanics. The scenes are laid ten centuries before Christ in the palace halls of Sheba in Abysinnia, in the desert and in the court of King Solomon when the Jewish monarch was at the height of his power.

One of the strikingly unusual scenes is the passing of the Abysinnian people, the whole entourage of Sheba, her courtiers, soldiers, charioteers, slaves and wise men across the desert when the long, apparently interminable line passes slowly across the expanse of sands represented upon the stage.

Intensely dramatic, the play itself is set in an atmosphere of what were probably the most brilliant, in a barbaric way, civilizations in the history of the world long before Christianity was founded and when the whole faith of all Jewry was found the spirit of God. Upon this ark was built their work, their ideals and their philosophies. It was practically the cornerstone of their civilization.

Suddenly it is gone. It has disappeared. It has been stolen. The very heart of the race has been torn out.

In the story Mr. Remsen has treated Sheba and Solomon as the representative figures, the flowers of the world's greatest civilizations at that time. Their religions, their ideals and their traditions are entirely separate and foreign to each other. They are of absolutely different races, yet when they meet, these two leaders, when Sheba, surrounded by all the beauty of her following, goes to Solomon set in the midst of the brilliance of his court there is a swift love born between the two.

Sheba goes to Solomon in search of an ideal which she may take back to her people. She finds it, but through the complication of her love for Solomon she cannot transmit it to him. Twenty years later her son makes the trip to the court of Judea in search again of the same vision.

"King Solomon" is being advertised throughout California and will, it is expected, draw many out-of-town visitors for the performance.

The City of Carmel-by-the Sea has collected its first fine for violation of the Wright enforcement act. Last Sunday Marshal Gus England caught a man in illegal possession of a quart of whisky. He was hailed before Judge J. W. Hand last Monday afternoon, pleaded guilty, and was fined $150.

Our employees consider it part of their regular duty to turn in to the management any suggestions they may have for improving service to the public.

Perhaps you, on the outside, see some chance for improvement that hasn't occurred to us.

If so, we hope you will tell us about it. Don't imagine that you'll be regarded merely as a "kicker." We are anxious to have your views.

No suggestion is too small or too obvious; we invite your co-operation.
